

ARCTIC

Do Polar Bears Have a Future?

Within the last four years Annemarie Koelliker and Roberto Saibene visited the Arctic twice. During their eastward voyages from Norway to Alaska they were fascinated by the icy landscapes as well as the rich flora and fauna. However, they also saw with their own eyes the dramatical changes in this remote area of our planet, caused by global warming. They returned home from their expeditions with many photos and many questions. Will the polar bears and the local people, who have lived there for thousands of years, survive the next decades?

*Multivision Show in two parts
770 Digital photos und videos, taken with
Nikon cameras and lenses*

*Projection with HD Beamer
Duration: 55 minutes*