Travelling along the world's longest railway line, the 'Transsib', was always one of Annemarie Koelliker's dreams, which she recently turned into reality. For three weeks she and her husband travelled from Moscow to Vladivostok. She has summarized her impressions and experiences in an interesting multivision show.

The continuation of the journey, by train of course, through a region of China was a great contrast to the Russian part of the trip. The second part of the show presents photos of various cities with their inhabitants and ends with a futuristic ride on the world's fastest train.

The photos are accompanied by local music and complemented by short comments.

*Data of the show: Multivision Show in two parts 700 digital photos taken with Nikon cameras and lenses
Projection with HD Beamer
Duration: 70 minutes*
